

Yumiko Murakami

General Partner

Yumiko Murakami is former head of the OECD Tokyo Center, where she led discussions on economic policy issues with government and business leaders in Japan and Asia. Yumiko's focus areas include corporate governance, aging society, gender diversity, international trade and innovation. Prior to joining the OECD, Yumiko spent almost 20 years in finance as Managing Director at Goldman Sachs and Credit Suisse, working mainly in New York and London. Yumiko also worked for the United Nations Peacekeeping Operations in Cambodia before the investment banking industry. Yumiko has an MBA from Harvard University (HBS), MA from Stanford University and BA from Sophia University. She sits on the Japan Advisory Board of HBS as well as several advisory committees of the Japanese Government. She is the author of the best-selling book, Turning Demographic Challenges into Economic Opportunities. She is also the mother of three children.

